Acting as the nerve centre for the Rainforest World Music Festival (RWMF), the Santubong Resort Kuching in Sarawak has become a familiar sight for the annual music event's regulars, being the host to a grand bulk of the organisers, performers and media attending the festival.

Santubong functions as the base of operations for RWMF, but also maintains a reputation for being a scenic destination resort for visitors to the hornbill state. The resort has the majestic Mount Santubong in the background and is surrounded by lush jungles, with an inviting beach just steps away from its main grounds.

The resort offers a full range of facilities, including its primary food outlet Café Gunung Santubong, the exclusive Talang Restaurant, its marvellous view of the South China Sea reserved only for private functions, and a Lobby Lounge that offers karaoke, drinks and entertainment into the early hours.

A number of activities that may appeal to more rugged individuals are also available, with convenient access to a gym, obstacle course, tennis court, futsal court, or basketball court, or other more simple diversions such as relaxing strolls on the natural beach or a brisk jog around the resort's charming compound. Golfers may also book through the front office to play at the nearby 18-hole course found at the Damai Golf and Country Club.

The Santubong Resort Kuching is also located mere minutes away from the Sarawak Cultural Village, which features the cultures of the various communities found throughout the state in a number of demonstrations presented at traditionally-designed houses placed about the area. The Sarawak Cultural Village is also the annual venue for the RWMF, making Santubong one of the most convenient, but also the most quickly-filled of the accommodations available in the area during the event.
