

More than a hundred years old, the Atkinson Clock tower proudly stands in Kota Kinabalu city

The Church of St. Michael and All Angels in Sandakan managed to escape destruction during World War II is one of the the oldest stone buildings in Sabah

The refurbished Sabah Tourism Board building, located along Gaya Street, is one of the few buildings that survived the blitz of the second world war.

HISTORICAL SITES OF SABAH